SCORES WILSON AND M'REYNOLDS

Representative Mann Discusses California Cases.

VIGOROUS SPEECH IN HOUSE

Republican Leader Attacks President and Attorney General for Postponing White Slave Cases at San Francisco and Compares Their Recent Conduct to That of Frightened Rabbits.

Washington, June 27.—In a vigorous speech in the house Representative Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, attacked Attorney General McReynolds for postponing the white slave cases in San Francisco; criticised Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau and declared that District Attorney McNab "had made the president and attorney general not only beg the question, but eat their words."

"Frightened rabbits," Mr. Mann said, "never got away quicker than the president and the attorney general when this matter was brought up."

Mr. Mann declared that the president and the attorney general "permitted themselves to be used to prevent the enforcement of a great moral reform law," and insisted that the administration excuse for the postponement, "offered to cast ignominy upon one official in the department of justice who has bravery, courage and knowledge of how to do things," was worse than the "offense."

Wanted Father at Trial.

"The younger Caminetti is a youthful boy of twenty-seven years, with, believe, several children," continued the speaker, "and it was desirable to have his father at the trial to protect him in his guileless innocence, having only seven lawyers to do so. His father had been appointed commissioner of immigration, one of the duties of which office is to enforce both the Mann and Bennett white slave laws—a fine man to place in that position, whose principal object is to leave his office in order to go to the side of his twenty-seven-year-old son under trial for white slave offense."

"The action now taken is pure hypocrisy. Manliness such as I would have expected from the Christian, moral gentleman occupying the White House would have required him to ask the district attorney to withdraw his resignation and try these cases. They have accepted the resignation of the district attorney and dismissed the officer who worked up these cases."

Mr. Mann charged that the new cabinet officers seemed to have an exaggerated importance in their own eyes and an exaggerated idea of the influence of each.

MAY HAVE BIG TARIFF STICK

Senate Democrats May Give President Unusual Power.

Washington, June 27.—Urgent desire to arm the president with a tariff "big stick," one of stronger and greater proportions than provided in the amendment suggested by the finance committee majority, developed in the Democratic caucus of the senate on the tariff bill.

Discussion of the proposed countervailing duty on wheat and flour which the committee recommended led to a general debate on retaliatory and countervailing tariff rates, and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia urged the adoption of an amendment that would give the president power to enforce the countervailing tariff rates on all commodities of commerce against any nation refusing to deal with the United States on a reciprocal tariff basis.

The amendment proposed would in many respects take the place of the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne-Aldrich law, but Senator Smith advocated a provision that would be broader than that; one that would give the president the authority at any time to interpose against any nation which might discriminate against the products of the United States the same tariff rates exacted on American goods.

MARTIN DIES ON SPEEDWAY

Merz' Mechanician Killed When Car Blows Tire and Overturns.

Indianapolis, June 27.—Harry Merz, a mechanic for Charles Merz, who drove the last lap in the recent 500-mile automobile race at the speed way with his car on fire to win this place, was killed at the speedway while testing out a car. Martin's assistant, Frank Agan, was probably fatally injured.

Martin was running the car at high speed around the course when it blew a tire, hit the railing wall and rolled over with both men under it.

Two Dead in Auto Crash.

Chicago, June 27.—H. A. Gregory, manager of a circulating bureau, was fatally injured and Miss Minnie Bristol was drowned when their automobile crashed into the railing of the "jackknife" bridge in Lincoln park.

CURRENCY BILL IS INTRODUCED

Measure Makes Its Appearance in Both Houses.

BANKERS SECURE CONCESSION

Three Sections Which Were Stricken Out of Original Draft Have Been Reinserted—They Provide for Gradual Retirement of National Bank Circulation and Refunding of United States Bonds.

Washington, June 27.—The administration currency bill was introduced in the house and senate. As the bill finally appears when laid before congress it contains the three sections which were stricken out of the original draft and which provide for the gradual retirement of the national bank circulation and the refunding of the 2 per cent United States bonds and the substitution thereof 3 per cents without circulation privileges.

This is the most important change that has been made in the bill and it represents a considerable concession to the bankers, who insisted that any revision of the currency system should contain a provision taking care of the 2 per cent bonds now deposited as a basis for the national bank circulation.

The banks obtained another important concession in regard to the power of the federal reserve association to fix the rate of discount for the federal reserve banks. The bankers of the country objected to this provision and it has been changed so that the reserve banks themselves now have the power of fixing a minimum rate of discount, subject to review by the federal reserve board.

There has also been a change in regard to the reserves to be maintained by the country banks. Under the bill as formerly drawn the country banks were to maintain a reserve equal to 15 per cent of the aggregate amount of their deposits.

Rules Governing Reserve.

Such reserve must consist of 5 per cent of lawful money, held actually in their own vaults, and 5 per cent with the district federal reserve bank. The remainder of the 15 per cent reserve for thirty-six months after the inauguration of the new system may consist of balances due to a national bank in reserve or central reserve cities as now defined by law. After the thirty-six months, however, the remainder of the 15 per cent were to consist either of lawful money in the bank's own vaults or on balances on deposit with the federal reserve bank in its district, or both.

While the amount of the reserves for country banks remains the same the following proviso has been added to the section:

"Provided that the federal reserve board may, in its discretion, permit said remainder of 15 per centum reserve required of country banks to consist of balances on deposit with any bank in a reserve or central reserve city, as defined by law."

In regard to the power of the president over the federal reserve board Mr. Wilson and his advisers, however, have yielded nothing. The board still consists of seven members, all of whom are to be appointed either directly or indirectly by the president.

Under the section of the bill which has been restored the government can issue not only the $500,000,000 of treasury notes authorized in the bill in its original form, but also additional notes in an amount equal to the amount of national bank notes retired.

MINNESOTA BUTTER.

St. Paul, June 27.—Minnesota creameries, 883, produced 116,500,000 pounds of butter in 1912, adding $35,000,000 to the state's wealth. This is an increase of about $6,000,000 over 1911. The report for 1912 is not completed, but the figures given are substantially accurate in round numbers.

AGED DUKE SEEKS DIVORCE

Brother-in-law of Austrian Emperor Would Put Aside Spouse.

Munich, Bavaria, June 27.—The eighty-two-year-old Duke Ludwig of Bavaria, brother-in-law of the Austrian emperor, entered suit for divorce against his second morganatic wife, a former ballet girl of the Bavarian court opera, whose maiden name was Antonio Barth and who is just forty years younger than her husband. He married her in 1892. Duke Ludwig has twice taken consorts from the stage, first marrying morganatically an actress named Henrietta Mundel, who died in 1891. The offspring of this union was the Countess Larisch, who recently published her memoirs in London.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND.

Large British Land Owner Passes Away.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND DEAD

Was Large Land Owner, Sportsman and Yachtsman.

London, June 27.—Cromartie Sutherland-Leveson-Gower, fourth duke of Sutherland, is dead.

The Duke of Sutherland, who was born July 20, 1851, was, with the exception of the emperor of Russia, the largest land owner in Europe. His Scottish estates embraced nearly a million and a half of acres. He owned 30,000 acres in Staffordshire and Shropshire and much landed property in other countries.

The duke was noted as a sportsman and a fine yachtsman. As the Marquis of Stafford he several times visited the United States on shooting trips.

In 1884 he married Lady Millicent Fanny St. Clair-Erskine, daughter of the fourth Earl of Rosslyn, two sons and one daughter being the result of the union.

In recent years the duke had been deeply interested in a colonization scheme for Western Canada.

MEASURE TO AVERT IMPENDING STRIKE

Senate Passes Bill Amending the Erdman Act.

Washington, June 27.—With a view to averting the threatened strike of 90,000 railway employees east of Chicago the senate rushed through the passage of amendments to the Erdman mediation act sought by the railways and railway employees as affording suitable machinery for the settlement of their pending disagreements.

Action came only after determined fighting for unanimous consent to consider the measure by both the Democratic and Republican members of the interstate commerce committee, led by Senator Newlands.

The amendments enlarge the board of arbitration provided under the Erdman act from three to six. The railways have declined to submit the present disputes to a board composed of only three members. It also provides for the appointment by the president of an official mediator independent of all government bureaus at a salary of $7,500.

WEALTHY RECLUSE KILLED

Slain by Former Employee, Who Commits Suicide.

Quincy, Ill., June 27.—Theodore F. Poage, a bachelor and owner of 500 acres of land adjoining West Quincy, Mo., was shot and instantly killed by Jacob Benning of Gregory, Mo., who committed suicide.

The shooting took place at Poage's home. Benning was formerly employed by Poage as a farm hand. Poage has lived a semi-secluded life since 1868.

OREGON BANK ROBBER TAKEN

Man Who Forced Glendale Cashier to Empty Vault Caught.

Marshfield, Ore., June 27.—Ray Diamond, the Glendale bank robber, was arrested in Gold Beach. He had the entire amount taken from the bank, $3,290, in his possession.

The money was found in his shoes and tied in rolls around his legs.

Diamond walked into the Glendale bank ten days ago and forced the cashier, who was well acquainted with him, to hand over the money in the vault.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is evolution?" "Evolution, my son, is a sort of apology which man has invented for displaying so many of the traits of the lower animals."—Washington Star.

WAR DOGS UNDER THE BRYAN LEASH

Meanwhile Army and Navy Are Being Kept Shipshape.

NO MEXICAN INTERVENTION

Former Delegate Maginnis Comes Back and Is Reminiscent—Nothing New About Having a Sugar Scandal in Washington—How President Wilson Turns the Tables on Scribes.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 27.—(Special.)—War scares will not be allowed to disturb this administration. Secretary Bryan has determined to have a peaceful reign in the state department. He intends to keep his battalions of Friendship and Fellowship afloat, and whenever we see something about trouble with Japan or Mexico or any other country we may be assured that it does not emanate from any state department official.

Of course Secretary Garrison, in the war department, and Secretary Daniels, in the navy department, are going ahead preparing the army and the navy for emergencies, just as other secretaries have been doing—that is, they are going to go ahead with the material they have on hand and make it into as formidable a force as can be done under the circumstances. But Bryan is not going to allow them to use these forces.

Mexico Investors.

About the first on the list came the Mexico investors—the Americans who had taken their gambler's chance under the iron rule of Diaz and were getting the worst of it. President Taft held off the war dogs, who wanted to fight for the millions invested in Mexico. And now Bryan says that Americans whose lives are in danger may leave. And we are not going to fight for property interests.

"We do not want intervention," say these investors, "but this government should tell the Mexican government and the revolutionists that American property must be protected."

But no one has yet pointed out how we could enforce such a dictum without intervention. And there will be no intervention under this administration. Bryan is backed by President Wilson in his stand.

More Than Half a Century.

Martin Maginnis came into the White House a few days ago and looked about him with interest. Maginnis was a delegate from Montana thirty years ago. Before that he was a resident of Minnesota. He went with his father to the North Star State—or rather territory—in 1853. When the civil war began he enlisted in the famous First Minnesota infantry.

"Just fifty-two years ago today," remarked Maginnis, "I came to Washington. President Lincoln made a speech to us. Simon Cameron, secretary of war, was there. I remember the curious manner in which his hair was wound around his head. Then we went to the capitol. I frequently listened to the debates. There were strong and stirring speeches made, but they were mostly on one side. There have been great changes since then."

Maginnis was then a sergeant. He was mustered out as a major, bearing honorable scars of the severe service which the regiment saw. He will be at the Gettysburg reunion, where the First Minnesota lost so heavily in the fierce fighting fifty years ago.

Methods Are the Same.

It is amusing to notice the surprise which appears upon the faces of senators when witnesses at the lobby inquiry explain that they send out circulars, news matter and other things, seeking always to get people interested and tell them to write and petition their men in congress to support propositions they favor. Why, from time beyond recollection that method of influencing legislation has been adopted. That is one thing under the sun that is eternal.

Turning the Tables.

I suppose that President Wilson may be called a Princeton tiger. That being the case, I will pass on to the array of newspaper talent that gathers twice a week and interviews the chief magistrate. We have all read how men and make wild beasts cover and sink away by looking them steadily in the eye. Well, the tables are turned by Wilson. The Princeton tiger looks each questioner steadily in the eye, and the questioner flinches and falters and fails to follow up his "lead" with a body blow, so to speak. Wilson stares the man straight in the eye when a query is made which might draw blood. "Do you notice," asked one of the veterans, "they can't stand and look at him when he stares straight at them?"

Always a Sugar Scandal.

There is no use in getting excited over this sugar investigation and the developments. There is always a sugar scandal in Washington. Every time there is a tariff bill, every time any action is taken which affects duties on sugar, money is expended. We had it in regard to Hawaii, the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico and all other possessions and tariff regulations. It may seem strange, but sugar and tariff mean money liberally expended.

JACK JOHNSON IN MONTREAL

Convicted Negro Pugilist Will Sail for Europe.

Montreal, June 27.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist under prison sentence in Chicago for violation of the white slave act and out on bail, is in this city on the way to England or France. Johnson admitted that he intended to sail for Europe next Tuesday to engage in fights in St. Petersburg next September.

He said he did not intend to forfeit his bail bond, which calls for his presence next November in Chicago, where he is under sentence on a white slave charge.

FEARS REFORMERS WILL GO TOO FAR

Former President Taft Speaks at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, June 27.—Taking as his subject "The Relation of Popular Government to Business," former President William Howard Taft, professor at Yale university, delivered the principal address at the dedication of the new home of the chamber of commerce of this city.

"The reformers apparently ignore the necessity for economy and efficiency in the administration of public affairs," said the former president. "These supposed reformers are so radical that the fear of many is that the extreme will be reached which will destroy the permanence of popular government and also individual liberties."

Mr. Taft praised the anti-trust laws of the country, voicing the hope that the business men responsible for the conduct of large corporations would be compelled to so operate their business that they would not only cheapen the product, but also treat their rivals fairly.

In speaking of the initiative, referendum and recall Mr. Taft said:

"The duties which the people must perform to make the new machinery of the initiative, the referendum and the recall effective are three times that necessary under the representative system."

MOTOR LAUNCH OVERTURNS

Six Persons Drown in River at Edmonton, Alta.

Edmonton, Alta., June 27.—Six persons were drowned when a motor launch upset in the river. The dead are Rodman C. Hooper, manager of the Marshall-Wells company, and Mrs. Hooper; Earl Merideth, superintendent of the same company, and Mrs. Merideth; Mrs. Case, wife of Manager Case of the West End branch of the Imperial bank, and a mechanic. Mr. Case alone was saved.

TRIPLE DROWNING.

Beatrice, Neb., June 27.—Alfred Jones, sixty-five years old, and his eleven-year-old son were drowned in the Blue river by the capsizing of a rowboat. Both bodies were recovered. Mrs. Jones was on the shore at the time the boat went over, but disappeared. It is believed she perished in an attempt to save her son.

He Guessed Wrong.

Wife—I wish, dear, that you'd settle my last milliner's bill. I really can't sleep for thinking of it. Hub—Your conscience pricking you, eh? Wife—Oh, no. But I need two more hats right away.—Boston Transcript.

JAIL FOR LAZY HUSBAND

First Conviction Obtained in Washington Under New Law.

Seattle, Wash., June 27.—The first conviction in Washington under the "lazy husband" law passed by the last legislature was obtained when George Riggs, an automobile mechanic, was found guilty of failing to support his wife and child and was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail. During Riggs' imprisonment his wife will receive $1 a day from the county.

PALMER APPEARS IN LOBBY PROBE

BANK CLERK NOT GUILTY

Funk Murder at Washburn, N. D., Remains a Mystery.

Washburn, N. D., June 27.—Wilfred T. Anderson, the young bank clerk tried for the murder of his employer, F. E. Funk, former cashier of the First National bank of Washburn, was found not guilty.

When the verdict was read by H. C. Hanson, clerk of court, Anderson burst into tears, threw his arms about his attorney, Tracy R. Bangs of Grand Forks, and thanked him, and went to the jury box and shook hands with each of the jurors. Then, five minutes after he had entered the courtroom and with a smile on his face, he hastened to his home, a free man, and broke the news to his wife and sisters.

Funk was killed the evening of April 14. He had stepped into the back yard and was stooping over to pick up his two-year-old baby, who had fallen while at play, when a bullet struck him in the head. He died almost instantly.

Ice Strike Is Continued.

Cincinnati, June 27.—The strike of the ice wagon drivers and their helpers came no nearer settlement than on the first day of the trouble. The officials of the ice companies arranged conferences with their engineers with a view of having them return to work.

Pennsylvania Congressman Before the Committee.

TELLS STORY VOLUNTARILY

Witness Describes Efforts of Mysterious Party to Hoodwink Wall Street Into Paying for Influence to Be Used in the Seats of the Mighty at Washington to Influence Legislation.

Washington, June 27.—The story of an effort to sell a gold brick to Wall Street and how it was foiled was told in part to the senate "lobby" investigating committee at one of the most sensational producing sessions it has held in its stormy career.

It was a tale of how influence was to be exerted in the seats of the mighty in Washington to prevent unfavorable legislation into the doings of the street; of how lawsuits that the financial interests in New York would not like to be prevented and of how the gold brick seller was generally to protect the interests of the clients he sought in the political game in the capitol.

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, one of the prominent Democrats in the house, mentioned for secretary of war in the preinauguration days and a close friend of the president, told the story and Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer, and Representative Daniel J. Rorand of New York, gave the committee some light on its details.

Identity Not Disclosed.

According to Mr. Palmer, Lewis Cass Ledyard, another New York lawyer, was the man who was largely instrumental in fanning the plot. The name of the man who proposed to do all these things in Washington was not given to the committee, although Mr. Palmer acknowledged that he had strong suspicions of his identity.

Mr. Palmer told the committee that the representations of influence in Washington had gone so far as to bring in the names of the speaker, of the majority leader in the house and of at least two other prominent members, whose names he did not give. He said that after Mr. Ledyard had engaged in many telephone conversations with the man who had all these goods for sale in Washington he had met Edward Lauterbach, a New York attorney, under the supposition that Lauterbach was representing the user of the telephone.

Mr. Palmer took the stand at his own request. Representative Daniel J. Rorand of New York took the stand and testified that he knew nothing of the charge made by Judge Robert Scott Lovett that a man purporting to be the congressman had urged over the telephone the retention of Mr. Lauterbach as counsel.

GATHERING AT GETTYSBURG

Advance Guard Arrives at Famous Battlefield.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 27.—Gathering from North and South for the fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg several hundred Civil war veterans arrived here, coming early, they said, "in order to avoid the great rush of the early part of next week."

Mingling with the blue uniforms were some in gray and the men from the South were given a hearty greeting. With their uniforms of gray topped by campaign hats the Southerners soon became the central figures on the streets and scarcely a person they passed failed to stop and ask the privilege of a handshake. Warmer than all others was the welcome extended them by the men in the blue of the Union veteran, many of whom are here for the state encampment.

EIGHTEEN HORSES CREMATED

Lightning Causes Destructive Fire at St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 27.—Eighteen horses were burned to death in spite of desperate efforts of twenty farm and dairy laborers and firemen from four companies to save them in a fire started by lightning, which destroyed the six dairy barns of Keough Bros. in the Midway district. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

F. D. Sherman, commissioner of immigration, is mailing to the city clerks and village recorders throughout the state a blank listing different industries with the instructions to put a check mark after the ones that they think would flourish in the locality covered. The department has devoted its attention to agriculture in the past exclusively but in the future some attention will be paid to inducing business and professional men to locate in Minnesota. Later a booklet will be published and the towns which furnish this information will be listed in the publication. The idea is a good one provided it is not overdone. As a rule business is overdone in most of the well established towns and cities of the northern part of the state and any inducement offered to men to open any line of business in a locality which is fairly well represented is an injury rather than a benefit to that locality because a prosperous business community with just enough well stocked stores and business houses, where all branches are represented, to meet the public demand and competition enough to keep the prices right and the service good will tend to keep that community healthy in a business way, where too many establishments of the same character cut the trade up and bankruptcy notices appear in the local papers. Mind you, the Dispatch is not knocking, and this method of advertising will be a good one for places that really need more business houses, professional men and business enterprises, but be careful that there are business openings in making the announcement.

Varlet and Valet.

"We have only ourselves, or, rather, our forefathers, to blame for the trouble about the pronunciation of 'valet,'" says the London Chronicle. "If they had stuck to 'varlet' there would have been no difficulty. 'Valet' and 'varlet' are the same word, meaning originally just a boy, the diminutive of 'vassal,' a man. Unfortunately when our ancestors applied a word meaning a boy to signify a servant they went on to make it bear a scornful sense. And so 'valet' degenerated hopelessly, just as did 'knave,' which is simply the German 'knabe' boy."

PERFECT SPHERES

With All His Scientific Skill Man Cannot Produce Them.

THE CURVING OF A BASEBALL.

It is Possible Only Because the Ball is an Imperfect Globe and In Comparison With Its Size Much Rougher Than the Surface of the Earth.

The real reason why a baseball can be thrown so that it will describe wonderful curves during its progress through the air is that every such ball has a surface made up of mountains, valleys, craters, canyons, gorges, plains and other irregularities of the surface that, when the difference in size is taken into consideration, makes the surface of the earth seem like plate glass.

If it were possible to make a perfect sphere—if it were possible to make a baseball with an absolutely smooth surface and an exact sphere—no pitcher in the world could make it curve. The very best pitchers baseball has ever known or probably ever will know could not make the ball deviate a hair's breadth in its flight.

And so while it is partly in the art or knack the professional pitcher has in holding and releasing the baseball as he throws it, it is also due to the fact that a baseball has a wonderfully rough surface against which the air catches and turns it that gives it the curve.

If you pass your hand over a plate glass it moves smoothly with nothing to retard it. If you pass your hand over an unplanned board you can feel the roughness—splinters we call them. You cannot move your hand as easily over the board. This is the same principle with the baseball. There is a roughness in its surface that catches in the air and forces one side about or retards that side. This has but one result—to make the baseball leave its straight course, and in doing this it describes a curve.

This does not detract in the least from the cleverness of the pitcher who can so accurately judge his muscular control as to make a baseball curve up or down, right or left. But the fact remains that it is the roughness of the baseball that makes all his pitching cleverness possible.

Take a brand new league ball in your hand. It looks to be a perfect sphere—that is, absolutely even and uniformly round and as "smooth as glass." And it may be as smooth as glass, for glass also has a rough surface.

Put a baseball under the most powerful microscope, enlarge it microscopically 10,000 diameters, and what do you see? The very thing mentioned in the first paragraph of this article. The surface is rough. It looks like the landscape in the Alps or Yellowstone park or any other rough section of the earth. It has peaks, ranges, ridges, valleys, plains and holes, gulches and all sorts of uneven places, and if the earth could be made as small as a baseball it would be practically a perfect sphere and absolutely smooth. This is because the highest mountains of the earth and the deepest valleys would be millions upon millions of times smaller in comparison with the rough uneven places on a baseball if either the earth were reduced to the size of a baseball or a baseball enlarged to the size of the earth.

If this were not true the earth would not revolve so regularly upon its axis. It would perform an "in shoot" or "out shoot" and curve off through space.

Even the billiard ball has a surface much rougher in comparison to its size than the surface of the earth, and we refer to a billiard ball as about the smoothest thing known. "As smooth as a billiard ball" is a well known simile. For the same reason that a perfectly smooth baseball could not be curved, a perfectly smooth and perfectly round billiard ball could not be made to curve on the table. It would not take "English," as billiard players call it when they make a ball go forward and then roll backward or in any direction just by the manner in which they strike it with a chalked cue.

This fact of roughness causing it to spin becomes all too evident when a player forgets to chalk his cue and plays several shots thereafter. If the leather tip of the cue becomes shiny it will slip on the ball. There is no purchase with which it can take hold. But chalk is sticky stuff, and the granules are large, so that a well chalked cue has a very rough surface, and this rough surface of the tip of the cue fits into the rough projections on the ball, and thereby a ball can be given a lot of twist. In order to accomplish this successfully, moreover, the billiard cloth nap must be new and therefore rough.

During recent experimentation with regard to the kinetic theory of gases a Belgian scientist desired to find out how perfect a sphere could be made in order that by the clashing of these together an idea might be secured of the effect of the collisions of the spherical atoms that make up a gas. The project had to be abandoned at last because no machinery could be constructed that would turn out a perfect sphere artificially, and nature has no perfect sphere of large size in all her many forms of matter. Perfect disks could be made, but a round ball was beyond the limits of human accomplishment.—New York American.

Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs Official Visitor Here

THE official visit to the United States of Dr. Lauro Severiana Muller, minister of foreign affairs of Brazil, marks an important step in the relations of the United States with the Latin American countries. Dr. Muller, who is one of the most distinguished statesmen in South America, landed at Norfolk, Va., from the Brazilian Dreadnought Minas Geraes, the largest battleship of the Brazilian navy.

The ostensible significance of Dr. Muller's visit is to return the one made to Brazil in 1906 by Ellhu Root, then secretary of state. There is, however, a deeper significance. It is the hope of the Brazilian government that Dr. Muller's visit to the United States and his meeting with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan may serve to bring about a better understanding between the governments at Rio de Janeiro and Washington. Ever since the trouble over the Sao Paulo coffee valorization syndicate, which the United States government tried to dissolve, there has been an underlying cause of friction between the commercial relations of the two countries which the state departments of both hope will be overcome through this visit.

Dr. Muller was the guest of the United States government in Washington, during which time he was entertained by President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and John Barrett, director of the Pan-American union. His stay was followed by a tour of the country, including a visit to San Francisco, where he will select a site for the Brazilian building to be erected at the Panama-Pacific exposition. He may visit the important American navy yards and gun factories.

Dudley Field Malone, third assistant secretary of state, accompanied Dr. Muller on several visits in this country.

A large suit accompanies Dr. Muller. With him, named in the order of precedence furnished to the state department by the Brazilian government, are: Dr. Helio Lobo, secretary of the mission; Antonio Sampaio, captain of frigate; Alberto de Ipanema Moreari, naval aid; Captain Antonio de Fonseca, former military attaché of the Brazilian embassy in Washington; Lieutenant Euclides Hehmesda Fonseca, son of President Fonseca, military aid; Custodio Alves de Lima, private secretary, and Maurice Nabuco, attaché, son of the late Ambassador Nabuco. Edwin V. Morgan, United States ambassador to Brazil, who has had much to do in bringing about Dr. Muller's visit, is also in the party.

The doctor is said to be a sincere admirer of the United States and seeks to perfect the policy of ex-Ambassador Nabuco toward a closer relationship between the two nations. His eldest son is studying at the American college in Sao Paulo. He had long entertained the idea of visiting the United States, but the call to the foreign office obliged him to postpone his trip north.

Now, since he is here, however, Dr. Muller plans to see a large part of this country. He was cordially received in every city that he visited. In New York Dr. Muller, with Mr. Malone and the members of the Brazilian party, paid an official visit to Mayor Gaynor and other public officials.

In Brazil Dr. Muller is a member of the Academy of Letters, restricted to forty members; the Historical and Geographical institute of Rio de Janeiro, the Geographical society, the Engineers' club and other scientific and technical associations, among which is the Societe d'Histoire Diplomatique de Paris. His name has recently been mentioned in connection with the presidency as that of a man worthy of succeeding Fonseca.

SHUN FRAYED COLLARS.

They Are Apt to Irritate the Neck and Cause Carbuncles.

The back of the neck is the commonest place for a carbuncle to appear. It is a most sensitive spot, not so much on the surface of the skin as in the underlying tissues, wherein are great nerves that communicate very closely with the brain. And it is in these tissues that the carbuncle spreads its "roots."

the tissue caused by the germs called streptococcus and staphylococcus. These are the principal but by no means the only pus producing germs. They eat and break down the tissues. The white corpuscles of the blood rush to the spot and try to devour the attacking bacteria. Millions of them perish in the attempt, and pus is really a mixture of dead white corpuscles and germs that are exuding virulent poisons.

Carbuncles select the back of the neck so often because of the irritation caused by the collar if this be slightly frayed or roughened by careless laundering. The back of the neck is almost as much exposed to dirt as are the backs of the hands and needs washing almost as often. The rubbing of the collar scrapes off the scaly surface of the skin, which is its protection against germs of disease. This being gone, the germs enter unopposed.

A collar button pressing constantly on the one spot may produce the same effect.

And in a few days you are going around with a bandage on your neck and suffering awful torture. Fortunately the doctors have discovered an antitoxin that quickly cures carbuncles. Yet even when this is administered the patient is doomed to much pain.

The moral of all this is: Don't wear a collar that is the least bit frayed.—New York World.

DOOMED TO A LIVING DEATH.

French Convicts Leave Hope Behind When They Enter Cayenne.

Cayenne—red pepper to the world at large, hell to the few thousand of convicts transported to this isolated northeastern corner of equatorial South America. Here, it was rumored, existed one of the world's most antiquated and revolting penal systems, where thousands of men are exiled and doomed to a living death. Men from French Guiana had intimated conditions which varied with the cruelties of the old convict ships.

Groups of convicts lounged about or lay sick and incapacitated on the verandas. At night the barred iron door of each dormitory is locked, and outside paces a guard, revolver in hand. Sometimes under cover of darkness the inmates settle feuds. Occasionally to establish leaders rival gangs fight with cudgels, knives and even paving stones. Some disabled, others dead, the most indomitable are reconciled and form a tyrannical secret society.

Many a poor wretch dreads the night hours, and one suspected of informing may be set upon by an enraged pack. Occasionally murder is committed in profound silence, and daylight finds a dead or dying convict in the passageway or entrance. Questioning is useless, and few guards will risk life in entering the barracks when smothered cries and cursings warn them of internal strife.

All the men I talked with were well disposed toward me, one in particular—a tall, well educated man with a pair of dark rimmed glasses and large eyes fearfully strained through inability to secure proper lenses.

"You must not lose hope," I told a group and almost swallowed my own words. "Hope!" burst out the rich, tremulous voice of the tall man. "It is always the same; there is no hope here." "No; no hope here!" was the echoed murmur of his comrades.—Charles Wellington Furlong in Harper's Magazine.

Special Fruit.

A man riding a wheel along a country road in late October dismounted, climbed a fence and picked up an apple from the ground. He had eaten it when a farmer came along and said, "Hay, what are you doing?"

The man apologized and said he had picked the apple up from the ground. "Waal," half snorted the farmer, "don't you go doin' anything like that ag'in. Understand?"

"All right, sir," said the man. "But I thought it would be all right because I found the apple on the ground."

"Waal, that's just it!" cried the farmer. "Them apples on the ground is fur my hogs. If you want one you pick it off the tree."—Everybody's.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism and Serious Diseases Follow

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and wornout feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected, may develop into the deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles for the new discovery, Hindipo, promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Hindipo a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly reach the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble or rheumatism.

You will find Hindipo different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Hindipo should fail in a single case. 50c a box at Johnson's Pharmacy. Money back if not satisfactory.—Advt.

A Letter For Schiller.

Schiller once received a letter which took five years to reach him. In 1793 the national convention created the author of "The Robbers" a French citizen as a tribute of admiration for the revolutionary ideas expressed in that work. The clerk charged with the dispatch of this civic diploma addressed the cover to "Citoyen Gille," and Schiller did not receive it until 1798. On its receipt he wrote: "This document has come to me from the kingdom of the dead. Danton and Claviere attested it. The covering letter is signed by Roland. All three have passed away."—London Chronicle.

ORGANIZING FARM WORK

A. B. Hostetter Will be Superintendent of the Northern Minnesota District

THIS COUNTY IS REPRESENTED

St. Louis, Carlton, Crow Wing and Koochiching Counties to Form the District

Plans for the organization of a Northeastern Minnesota district for farm development work are going forward. If present plans go through, A. B. Hostetter, who will probably be district superintendent, will take the field about July 1, and each of the four counties will have a county agent by Aug. 1.

The district will originally consist of St. Louis, Carlton, Crow Wing and Koochiching counties. The county board of each county has appropriated money under the Craig bill, thus becoming eligible for state aid. In addition, St. Louis and Carlton counties have qualified for the $1,000 aid offered by the crop improvement committee of the council of Grain Exchanges.

Ordinarily a district would not be organized without more counties, but on account of the great size of St. Louis county and the fact that Lake County is a prospect for the future, Dean Woods of the state agricultural college decided to sanction the organization. Aitkin and Itasca counties, which were asked to go into the district, failed to qualify by the county boards refusing to make the required appropriations.

Mr. Hostetter's appointment as superintendent of the district has not yet been made, but since the first talk of the organization of the district, Mr. Hostetter has been considered for the place. His appointment is expected to be made within a few days and he will take up his duties immediately. Although the appropriations for county agents will not become available until Aug. 1, there is much preliminary work to be done by the superintendent. The St. Louis county agent, Fred Ward, has been in the field for two or three months.

The Duluth demonstration farm will be the base of operations, and the district superintendent will have his headquarters there. The agents will be experienced farm instructors and will work with the farmers in the field under the direction of the superintendent.—Duluth Herald.

MAKING MAP OF CITY

J. F. McCarthy, of New York, Making Map For Fire Insurance Companies

F. J. McCarthy, a surveyor, is making a fire map of the city for the central department of the Sanborn Map company of New York. All the fire insurance companies buy these maps for their agents.

It will take Mr. McCarthy three months to complete his draft of Brainerd. The last map of this city was made in 1907 and since then there have been many changes. He makes a record of the length and width and height of houses, construction, etc., and from these records the agents get their data as to insurable value, etc.

Mr. McCarthy has engaged rooms on the north side. This extended mention is made of the gentlemen so that some householders will not become alarmed when he sees a man making notes of his house and then measuring it.

$50 Reward

Fifty dollars ($50) reward will be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person shooting insulators on our high tension pole line in the vicinity of Brainerd.

THE FARMERS' CAR

Livestock Shipping and Marketing in Farmers' Hands Increases Farmers' Revenue

The following clipping was given the Dispatch by E. O. Webb and relates to what is termed the "Farmers' Car," being a system of shipping and marketing by the farmers which brings them increased revenue:

The patrons of farmers car of Elkland, have reason to feel proud of their success which was shown by the fact that the Elmira Star-Gazette has given them a prominent space with attractive head lines, as you will see by the following article:

On the 19th of April, 1911, the first car of livestock was shipped out of Elkland, Pa., by the farmers of that section under the name of the "Farmers' Car." Since the business has steadily grown and from $6,500 to $8,000 worth of stock is now shipped each month, and a car is now shipped further up the Cowanesque Valley at Knoxville, Pa. Farmers now receive from 20 to 50 per cent more for their livestock than previously, and the business has received such an impetus that the value of all kinds of stock has greatly increased in that territory. The system of co-operation among the farmers in making shipments was originated by Edwin W. Coates, Linsford M. Coates and Martin Murray, all of Elkland, and they have since made a great success of their management. This is due to the fact that they are all first-class business men and also practical farmers themselves. The Coates Bros. are extensive dealers in hardware and farm implements. Mr. Murray is a young man of high ability, and it is of interest to note that he is a cousin of Lawrence Murray, ex-controller of the currency.

All three gentlemen are owners of farms, and it is stated that they are the largest land owners in Tioga county. The many farmers benefited by the system of shipment are unanimous in expressing their appreciation of these gentlemen, whose ability has made such a success of the management. Hogs, sheep, lambs, cattle, calves, etc., are now shipped and the operations are constantly increasing into more distant territory. People elsewhere who have heard of the movement have become interested and the Coates Bros. and Mr. Murray will be glad at all times to give still further information concerning a system which will do much to elevate and make more profit for the agricultural profession.—Elmira Star-Gazette.

The Summer Girl

Why flout the summer girl, my son?
Why criticise her attitude?
Why ban her from the whirl, my son,
With carping word and platitudes?
What if she flicks her nose, my son?
Are not all breezes by the sea?
It merely you behooves, my son,
To know just when she teases thee.
The summer girl in love, my son,
'S a lesson in futurity.
She's like the clouds above, my son,
Least trusted in tranquillity.
Her face is fair and fresh, my son,
Her heart like airy thistledown.
Her arms are flails that thrash, my son,
Her hair a fairy misal crown.
Her life's a butterfly, my son,
She runs herself, and in review
You see her flutter by, my son,
To flowers that are fresh and new.
But wish not otherwise, my son,
'Tis fleeting things that please us most.
Compete with other guys, my son,
And, if you win, neglect to boast.

ROBERT J. COLLIER PLANS TO FLY ACROSS ATLANTIC

Publisher Building a Hydroaeroplane, Marblehead, Mass.

Robert J. Collier, the New York publisher, it is said, will attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean in the fall in a flying boat equipped with a 200 horsepower engine of French design and capable of 100 miles an hour or more. The hydroaeroplane is being constructed at the Burgess-Curtiss aero plant, Marblehead, Mass., with much secrecy. It will be larger and nearly twice as swift as the craft constructed for the navy department recently, which has made forty successful flights. It will cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

Mr. Collier, it is said, told the designers that he wanted the craft merely for sport, but his intimate friends say that he is bent upon attempting the transatlantic flight. He has been to Marblehead several times in the past few weeks and will try out the flying boat over the harbor in about two weeks. The machine will be entirely finished by the middle of July.

The flying boat, it is said, will be the largest and fastest hydroaeroplane in the world. A special twenty cylinder Anzani engine, with 200 horsepower, has been imported at a cost of $10,000. It is made almost entirely of aluminum, weighing about 700 pounds. The gross weight of the machine, including the weight of the aviator and a passenger, will be 2,200 pounds. The planes are forty-five feet in length from tip to tip and are made of special varnished linen.

They are seven feet apart and supported by a single line of uprights of steel, with steel wire bracing, resembling cables on suspension bridges.

The propellers have eight foot blades, made of solid mahogany, set at right angles, making four blades. The engine is situated between the planes, behind and almost two feet above the head of the operator. It can easily be "turned over" by a wheel arrangement without necessitating the operator leaving his seat.

Besides carrying a tank with a capacity of fifty gallons, there is room in the craft for another tank of the same size. This would give Mr. Collier sufficient gasoline to carry him across the ocean.

The air craft will sit lightly on the water and in this position can make from sixty to seventy-five miles an hour. It is unsinkable, and this, with its speed, removes most of the danger of descending to the water in flight.

All parts of the flying boat have been finished, and it will take about two weeks longer to assemble them. The craft resembles the naval flying boat, but is several feet longer, and its engine will have three times the horsepower.

Ruskin's Burlesque of Shelley.

There were recently sold at auction in London some famous letters, among them one by Ruskin denouncing Shelley's style—"one might write Shelley by Shrewsbury clock." He then proceeds to give a specimen of how it could be done:

It was a lawnly leet
By anemone and violet
Like mosaic pavens.
There sat a gentleman—flushed and shy—
And a girl with corkscrew curl in her eye.
And the grass between was a large old pie
And a ham bone, cleanly shaved, lay
And the gentleman asked in accents mild,
"Was it quite enough soaked before it was biled?"
And the lady replied as she pulled a violet
Off the little lawn leet,
"Didn't I tell you—Jane would split it?"

WELCOME WORK.

The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it, whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.

Where the Fly Is Sacred.

The common housefly is regarded in some parts of the world as a bringer of good luck. Some years ago a correspondent from Greenock wrote to Notes and Queries: "Among our deep sea fishermen there is a most comical idea that if a fly falls into the glass from which any one has been drinking, or is about to drink, it is considered a sure and true omen of good luck to the drinker and is always noticed as such by the company." But houseflies have the charm of rarity on the Dogger bank.—London Spectator.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Hindipo, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly.

It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Hindipo is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

SCORES WILSON
AND M'REYNOLDSRepresentative Mann Discusses California Cases.

VIGOROUS SPEECH IN HOUSE

Republican Leader Attacks President and Attorney General for Postponing White Slave Cases at San Francisco and Compares Their Recent Conduct to That of Frightened
Rabbits.

Washington, June 27.—In a vigorous speech in the house Representative Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, attacked Attorney General McReynolds for postponing the white slave cases in San Francisco; criticized Commissioner General Caminetti of the immigration bureau and declared that District Attorney McNab "had made the president and attorney general not only beg the question, but eat their words."

"Frightened rabbits," Mr. Mann said, "never got away quicker than the president and the attorney general when this matter was brought up."

Mr. Mann declared that the president and the attorney general "permitted themselves to be used to prevent the enforcement of a great moral reform law," and insisted that the administration excuse for the postponement, "offered to cast ignominy upon one official in the department of justice who has bravery, courage and knowledge of how to do things," was worse than the "offense."

Wanted Father at Trial.

"The younger Caminetti is a youthful boy of twenty-seven years, with, believe, several children," continued the speaker, "and it was desirable to have his father at the trial to protect him in his guileless innocence, paying only seven lawyers to do so. His father had been appointed commissioner of immigration, one of the duties of which office is to enforce both the Mann and Bennett white slave laws—a fine man to place in that position, whose principal object is to leave his office in order to go to the side of his twenty-seven-year-old son under trial for white slave offense."

"The action now taken is pure hypocrisy. Manliness such as I would have expected from the Christian, moral gentleman occupying the White House would have required him to ask the district attorney to withdraw his resignation and try these cases. They have accepted the resignation of the district attorney and dismissed the officer who worked up these cases."

Mr. Mann charged that the new cabinet officers seemed to have an exaggerated importance in their own eyes and an exaggerated idea of the influence of each.

MAY HAVE BIG TARIFF STICK

Senate Democrats May Give President Unusual Power.

Washington, June 27.—Urgent desire to arm the president with a tariff "big stick," one of stronger and greater proportions than provided in the amendment suggested by the finance committee majority, developed in the Democratic caucus of the senate on the tariff bill.

Discussion of the proposed counter-vailing duty on wheat and flour which the committee recommended led to a general debate on retaliatory and counter-vailing tariff rates, and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia urgently proposed the adoption of an amendment that would give the president power to enforce the counter-vailing tariff rates on all commodities of commerce against any nation refusing to deal with the United States on a reciprocal tariff basis.

The amendment proposed would in many respects take the place of the maximum and minimum clause of the Payne-Aldrich law, but Senator Smith advocated a provision that would be broader than that; one that would give the president the authority at any time to interpose against any nation which might discriminate against the products of the United States the same tariff rates exacted on American goods.

MARTIN DIES ON SPEEDWAY

Merz' Mechanician Killed When Car
Blows Tire and Overturns.

Indianapolis, June 27.—Harry Martin, mechanic for Charles Merz, who drove the last lap in the recent 500-mile automobile race at the speedway with his car on fire to win the place, was killed at the speedway while testing out a car. Martin's assistant, Frank Agan, was probably fatally injured.

Martin was running the car at high speed around the course when it blew a tire, hit the railing wall and rolled over with both men under it.

Two Dead in Auto Crash.

Chicago, June 27.—H. A. Gregory, manager of a circulating bureau, was fatally injured and Miss Minnie Bristol was drowned when their automobile crashed into the railing of the "jackknife" bridge in Lincoln park.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND.

Large British Land
Owner Passes Away.

DUKE OF SUTHERLAND DEAD

Was Large Land Owner, Sportsman and Yachtsman.

London, June 27.—Cromartie Sutherland-Leveson-Gower, fourth duke of Sutherland, is dead.

The Duke of Sutherland, who was born July 20, 1851, was, with the exception of the emperor of Russia, the largest land owner in Europe. His Scottish estates embraced nearly a million and a half of acres. He owned 30,000 acres in Staffordshire and Shropshire and much landed property in other countries.

The duke was noted as a sportsman and a fine yachtsman. As the Marquis of Stafford he several times visited the United States on shooting trips.

In 1884 he married Lady Millicent Fanny St. Clair-Erskine, daughter of the fourth Earl of Rosslyn, two sons and one daughter being the result of the union.

In recent years the duke had been deeply interested in a colonization scheme for Western Canada.

MEASURE TO AVERT
IMPENDING STRIKESenate Passes Bill Amending
the Erdman Act.

Washington, June 27.—With a view to averting the threatened strike of 90,000 railway employees east of Chicago the senate rushed through the passage of amendments to the Erdman mediation act sought by the railways and railway employees as affording suitable machinery for the settlement of their pending disagreements.

Action came only after determined fighting for unanimous consent to consider the measure by both the Democratic and Republican members of the interstate commerce committee, led by Senator Newlands.

The amendments enlarge the board of arbitration provided under the Erdman act from three to six. The railways have declined to submit the present disputes to a board composed of only three members. It also provides for the appointment by the president of an official mediator independent of all government bureaus at a salary of $7,500.

The shooting took place at Poage's home. Benning was formerly employed by Poage as a farm hand.

Poage has lived a semi-secluded life since 1868.

WAR DOGS UNDER
THE BRYAN LEASHMeanwhile Army and Navy Are Being Kept Shipshape.

NO MEXICAN INTERVENTION

Former Delegate Maginnis Comes Back and Is Ruminant—Nothing New About Having a Sugar Scandal in Washington—How President Wilson Turns the Tables on Scribes.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 27.—[Special.]—War scares will not be allowed to disturb this administration. Secretary Bryan has determined to have a peaceful reign in the state department. He intends to keep his battleships Friendship and Fellowship afloat, and whenever we see something about trouble with Japan or Mexico or any other country we may be assured that it does not emanate from any state department official.

Of course Secretary Garrison, in the war department, and Secretary Daniels, in the navy department, are going ahead preparing the army and the navy for emergencies, just as other secretaries have been doing—that is, they are going to go ahead with the material they have on hand and make it into as formidable a force as can be done under the circumstances. But Bryan is not going to allow them to use these forces.

Mexico Investors.

About the first on the list came the Mexico investors—the Americans who had taken their gambler's chance under the iron rule of Diaz and were getting the worst of it. President Taft held off the war dogs, who wanted to fight for the millions invested in Mexico. And now Bryan says that Americans whose lives are in danger may leave. And we are not going to fight for property interests.

"We do not want intervention," say these investors, "but this government should tell the Mexican government and the revolutionists that American property must be protected."

But no one has yet pointed out how we could enforce such a dictum without intervention. And there will be no intervention under this administration. Bryan is backed by President Wilson in his stand.

More Than Half a Century.

Martin Maginnis came into the White House a few days ago and looked about him with interest. Maginnis was a delegate from Montana thirty years ago. Before that he was a resident of Minnesota. He went with his father to the North Star State—or rather territory—in 1833. When the civil war began he enlisted in the famous First Minnesota Infantry.

"Just fifty-two years ago today," remarked Maginnis reminiscently, "we came to Washington. President Lincoln made a speech to us. Simon Cameron, secretary of war, was there. I remember the curious manner in which his hair was wound around his head. Then we went to the capitol. I frequently listened to the debates. There were strong and stirring speeches made, but they were mostly on one side. There have been great changes since then."

Maginnis was then a sergeant. He was mustered out as a major, bearing honorable scars of the severe service which the regiment saw. He will be at the Gettysburg reunion, where the First Minnesota lost so heavily in the fierce fighting fifty years ago.

Methods Are the Same.

It is amusing to notice the surprise which appears upon the faces of senators when witnesses at the lobby inquiry explain that they send out circulars, news matter and other things, seeking always to get people interested and tell them to write and petition their men in congress to support propositions they favor. Why, from time beyond recollection that method of influencing legislation has been adopted. That is one thing under the sun that is eternal.

Turning the Tables.

I suppose that President Wilson may be called a Princeton tiger. That being the case, I will pass on to the array of newspaper talent that gathers twice a week and interviews the chief magistrate. We have all read how men take and make wild beasts cower and sink away by looking them steadily in the eye. Well, the tables are turned by the Wilson. The Princeton tiger looks each questioner steadily in the eye, and the questioner flinches and falters and falls to follow up his "lead" with a body blow, so to speak. Wilson stares the man straight in the eye when a query is made which might draw blood. "Do you notice," asked one of the veterans, "they can't stand and look at him when he stares straight at them?"

Always a Sugar Scandal.

There is no use in getting excited over this sugar investigation and the developments. There is always a sugar scandal in Washington. Every time there is a tariff bill, every time any action is taken which affects duties on sugar, money is expended. We had it in regard to Hawaii, the Philippines, Cuba, Porto Rico and all other possessions and tariff regulations. It may seem strange, but sugar and tariff mean money liberally expended.

Woman's Way.

"Pa, what do they mean by a woman's way?"

"Her own."—Buffalo Express.

Montreal, June 27.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist under prison sentence in Chicago for violation of the white slave act and out on bail, is in this city on the way to England or France. He said he did not intend to forfeit his bail bond, which calls for his presence next November in Chicago, where he is under sentence on a white slave charge.

FEARS REFORMERS
WILL GO TOO FARFormer President Taft Speaks at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, June 27.—Taking as his subject "The Relation of Popular Government to Business," former President William Howard Taft, professor at Yale university, delivered the principal address at the dedication of the new home of the chamber of commerce of this city.

"The reformers apparently ignore the necessity for economy and efficiency in the administration of public affairs," said the former president. "These supposed reformers are so radical that the fear of many is that the extreme will be reached which will destroy the permanence of popular government and also individual liberties."

Mr. Taft praised the anti-trust laws of the country, voicing the hope that the business men responsible for the conduct of large corporations would be compelled so to operate their business that they would not only cheapen the product, but also treat their rivals fairly.

In speaking of the initiative, referendum and recall Mr. Taft said: "The duties which the people must perform to make the new machinery of the initiative, referendum and the recall effective are three times that necessary under the representative system."

MOTOR LAUNCH OVERTURNS

Six Persons Drown in River at Edmonton, Alta.

Edmonton, Alta., June 27.—Six persons were drowned when a motor launch upset in the river. The dead are Rodman C. Hooper, manager of the Marshall-Wells company, and Mrs. Hooper; Earl Merideth, superintendent of the same company, and Mrs. Merideth; Mrs. Case, wife of Manager Case of the West End branch of the Imperial bank, and a mechanic. Mr. Case alone was saved.

TRIPLE DROWNING.

Beatrice, Neb., June 27.—Alfred Jones, sixty-five years old, and his eleven-year-old son were drowned in the Blue river by the capsizing of a rowboat. Both bodies were recovered. Mrs. Jones was on the shore at the time the boat went over, but disappeared. It is believed she perished in an attempt to save her son.

BANK CLERK NOT GUILTY

Funk Murder at Washburn, N. D.,
Remains a Mystery.

Washburn, N. D., June 27.—Wilfred T. Anderson, the young bank clerk tried for the murder of his employer, F. E. Funk, former cashier of the First National bank of Washburn, was found not guilty.

When the verdict was read by H. C. Hanson, clerk of court, Anderson burst into tears, threw his arms about his attorney, Tracy R. Bangs of Grand Forks, and thanked him, and went to the jury box and shook hands with each of the jurors. Then, five minutes after he had entered the courtroom and with a smile on his face, he hastened to his home, a free man, and broke the news to his wife and sisters.

Funk was killed the evening of April 14. He had stepped into the bank yard and was stooping over to pick up his two-year-old baby, who had fallen while at play, when a bullet struck him in the head. He died almost instantly.

TELLS STORY VOLUNTARILY

Witness Describes Efforts of Mysterious Party to Hoodwink Wall Street
Into Paying for Influence to Be Used in the Seats of the Mighty at Washington to Influence Legislation.

Washington, June 27.—The story of an effort to sell a gold brick to Wall street and how it was foiled was told in part to the senate "lobby" investigating committee at one of the most sensation producing sessions it has held in its stormy career.

It was a tale of how influence was to be exerted in the seats of the mighty in Washington to prevent unfavorable legislation into the doings of the street; of how lawsuits that the financial interests in New York would not like to be prevented and of how the gold brick seller was generally to protect the interests of the clients he sought in the political game in the capital.

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, one of the prominent Democrats in the house, mentioned for secretary of war in the preinauguration days and a close friend of the president, told the story and Edward Lauterbach, a New York lawyer, and Representative Daniel J. Roridan of New York, gave the committee some light on its details.

Identity Not Disclosed.

According to Mr. Palmer, Lewis Cass Ledyard, another New York lawyer, was the man who was largely instrumental in fanning the plot. The name of the man who proposed to do all these things in Washington was not given to the committee, although Mr. Palmer acknowledged that he had strong suspicions of his identity.

Mr. Palmer told the committee that the representations of influence in Washington had gone so far as to bring in the names of the speaker, of the majority leader in the house and of at least two other prominent members, whose names he did not give. He said that after Mr. Ledyard had engaged in many telephone conversations with the man who had all these goods for sale in Washington he had met Edward Lauterbach, a New York attorney, under the supposition that Lauterbach was representing the user of the telephone.

Mr. Palmer took the stand at his own request.

Representative Daniel J. Roridan of New York took the stand and testified that he knew nothing of the charge made by Judge Robert Scott Lovett that a man purporting to be the congressman had urged over the telephone the retention of Mr. Lauterbach as counsel.

GATHERING AT GETTYSBURG

Advance Guard Arrives at Famous Battlefield.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 27.—Gathering from North and South for the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg several hundred Civil war veterans arrived here, coming early, they said, "in order to avoid the great rush of the early part of next week."

Mingling with the blue uniforms were some in gray and the men from the South were given a hearty greeting. With their uniforms of gray topped by campaign hats the Southerners soon became the central figures on the streets and scarcely a person they passed failed to stop and ask the privilege of a handshake. Warmer than all others was the welcome extended them by the men in the blue of the Union veteran, many of whom are here for the state encampment.

EIGHTEEN HORSES CREMATED

Lightning Causes Destructive Fire at St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 27.—Eighteen horses were burned to death in spite of desperate efforts of twenty farm and dairy laborers and firemen from four companies to save them in a fire started by lightning, which destroyed the six dairy barns of Keough Bros. in the Midway district. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

WITNESS FOR THE DEFENSE

James R. Garfield Testifies in Steel Trust Suit.

New York, June 27.—James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations during the Roosevelt administration, testified for the defense in the hearings of the government dissolution suit against the United States Steel corporation.

Mr. Garfield described the investigation of the corporation, which he began at the behest of President Roosevelt in 1905, and said that he had reported to the president in 1907 that he had not found anything that would call for prosecution of the corporation. This was when the president consulted him relative to the proposed purchase of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the corporation, which Mr. Roosevelt subsequently sanctioned.

F. D. Sherman, commissioner of immigration, is mailing to the city clerks and village recorders throughout the state a blank listing different industries with the instructions to put a check mark after the ones that they think would flourish in the locality covered. The department has devoted its attention to agriculture in the past exclusively but in the future some attention will be paid to inducing business and professional men to locate in Minnesota. Later a booklet will be published and the towns which furnish this information will be listed in the publication. The idea is a good one provided it is not overdone. As a rule business is overdone in most of the well established towns and cities of the northern part of the state and any inducement offered to men to open any line of business in a locality which is fairly well represented is an injury rather than a benefit to that locality because a prosperous business community with just enough well stocked stores and business houses, where all branches are represented, to meet the public demand and competition enough to keep the prices right and the service good will tend to keep that community healthy in a business way, where too many establishments of the same character cut the trade up and bankruptcy notices appear in the local papers. Mind you, the Dispatch is not knocking, and this method of advertising will be a good one for places that really need more business houses, professional men and business enterprises, but be careful that there are business openings in making the announcement.

Varlet and Valet. "We have only ourselves, or, rather, our forefathers, to blame for the trouble about the pronunciation of 'valet,'" says the London Chronicle. "If they had stuck to 'varlet' there would have been no difficulty. 'Valet' and 'varlet' are the same word, meaning originally just a boy, the diminutive of 'vassal,' a man. Unfortunately when our ancestors applied a word meaning a boy to signify a servant they went on to make it bear a scornful sense. And so 'valet' degenerated hopelessly, just as did 'knave,' which is simply the German 'knabe,' boy."

PERFECT SPHERES

With All His Scientific Skill Man Cannot Produce Them.

THE CURVING OF A BASEBALL.

It is Possible Only Because the Ball is an Imperfect Globe and in Comparison With its Size Much Rougher Than the Surface of the Earth.

The real reason why a baseball can be thrown so that it will describe wonderful curves during its progress through the air is that every such ball has a surface made up of mountains, valleys, craters, canyons, gorges, plains and other irregularities of the surface that, when the difference in size is taken into consideration, makes the surface of the earth seem like plate glass.

If it were possible to make a perfect sphere—if it were possible to make a baseball with an absolutely smooth surface and an exact sphere—no pitcher in the world could make it curve. The very best pitchers baseball has ever known or probably ever will know could not make the ball deviate a hair's breadth in its flight.

And so while it is partly in the art or knack the professional pitcher has in holding and releasing the baseball as he throws it, it is also due to the fact that a baseball has a wonderfully rough surface against which the air catches and turns it that gives it the curve.

If you pass your hand over a plate glass it moves smoothly with nothing to retard it. If you pass your hand over an unplanned board you can feel the roughness—splinters we call them. You cannot move your hand as easily over the board. This is the same principle with the baseball. There is a roughness in its surface that catches in the air and forces one side about or retards that side. This has but one result—to make the baseball leave its straight course, and in doing this it describes a curve.

This does not detract in the least from the cleverness of the pitcher who can so accurately judge his muscular control as to make a baseball curve up or down, right or left. But the fact remains that it is the roughness of the baseball that makes all his pitching cleverness possible.

Take a brand new league ball in your hand. It looks to be a perfect sphere—that is, absolutely even and uniformly round and as "smooth as glass." And it may be as smooth as glass, for glass also has a rough surface.

Put a baseball under the most powerful microscope, enlarge it microscopically 10,000 diameters, and what do you see? The very thing mentioned in the first paragraph of this article. The surface is rough. It looks like the landscape in the Alps or Yellowstone park or any other rough section of the earth. It has peaks, ranges, ridges, valleys, plains and holes, gulches and all sorts of uneven places, and if the earth could be made as small as a baseball it would be practically a perfect sphere and absolutely smooth. This is because the highest mountains of the earth and the deepest valleys would be millions upon millions of times smaller in comparison with the rough uneven places on a baseball if either the earth were reduced to the size of a baseball or a baseball enlarged to the size of the earth.

If this were not true the earth would not revolve so regularly upon its axis. It would perform an "in shoot" or "out shoot" and curve off through space.

Even the billiard ball has a surface much rougher in comparison to its size than the surface of the earth, and we refer to a billiard ball as about the smoothest thing known. "As smooth as a billiard ball" is a well known simile. For the same reason that a perfectly smooth baseball could not be curved, a perfectly smooth and perfectly round billiard ball could not be made to curve on the table. It would not take "English," as billiard players call it when they make a ball go forward and then roll backward or in any direction just by the manner in which they strike it with a chalked cue.

This fact of roughness causing it to spin becomes all too evident when a player forgets to chalk his cue and plays several shots thereafter. If the leather tip of the cue becomes shiny it will slip on the ball. There is no purchase with which it can take hold. But chalk is sticky stuff, and the granules are large, so that a well chalked cue has a very rough surface, and this rough surface of the tip of the cue fits into the rough projections on the ball, and thereby a ball can be given a lot of twist. In order to accomplish this successfully, moreover, the billiard cloth nap must be new and therefore rough.

During recent experimentation with regard to the kinetic theory of gases a Belgian scientist desired to find out how perfect a sphere could be made in order that by the clashing of these together an idea might be secured of the effect of the collisions of the spherical atoms that make up a gas. The project had to be abandoned at last because no machinery could be constructed that would turn out a perfect sphere artificially, and nature has no perfect sphere of large size in all her many forms of matter. Perfect disks could be made, but a round ball was beyond the limits of human accomplishment.—New York American.

Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs Official Visitor Here

THE official visit to the United States of Dr. Lauro Severiana Muller, minister of foreign affairs of Brazil, marks an important step in the relations of the United States with the Latin American countries. Dr. Muller, who is one of the most distinguished statesmen in South America, landed at Norfolk, Va., from the Brazilian Dreadnought Minas Geraes, the largest battleship of the Brazilian navy.

The ostensible significance of Dr. Muller's visit is to return the one made to Brazil in 1896 by Elihu Root, then secretary of state. There is, however, a deeper significance. It is the hope of the Brazilian government that Dr. Muller's visit to the United States and his meeting with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan may serve to bring about a better understanding between the governments at Rio de Janeiro and Washington.

Ever since the trouble over the Sao Paulo coffee valorization syndicate, which the United States government tried to dissolve, there has been an underlying cause of friction between the commercial relations of the two countries which the state departments of both hope will be overcome through this visit.

Dr. Muller was the guest of the United States government in Washington, during which time he was entertained by President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and John Barrett, director of the Pan-American union. His stay was followed by a tour of the country, including a visit to San Francisco, where he will select a site for the Brazilian building to be erected at the Panama-Pacific exposition. He may visit the important American navy yards and gun factories.

Dudley Field Malone, third assistant secretary of state, accompanied Dr. Muller on several visits in this country. A large suit accompanies Dr. Muller. With him, named in the order of precedence furnished to the state department by the Brazilian government, are: Dr. Helio Lobo, secretary of the mission; Antonio Sampaio, captain of frigate; Alberto de Ipanema Moreira, naval aid; Captain Antonio de Fonseca, former military attaché of the Brazilian embassy in Washington; Lieutenant Euclides Hehmesda Fonseca, son of President Fonseca, military aid; Custodio Alves de Lima, private secretary, and Maurice Nabuco, attaché, son of the late Ambassador Nabuco. Edwin V. Morgan, United States ambassador to Brazil, who has had much to do in bringing about Dr. Muller's visit, is also in the party.

The doctor is said to be a sincere admirer of the United States and seeks to perfect the policy of ex-Ambassador Nabuco toward a closer relationship between the two nations. His eldest son is studying at the American college in Sao Paulo. He had long entertained the idea of visiting the United States, but the call to the foreign office obliged him to postpone his trip north.

Now, since he is here, however, Dr. Muller plans to see a large part of this country. He was cordially received in every city that he visited. In New York Dr. Muller, with Mr. Malone and the members of the Brazilian party, paid an official visit to Mayor Gaynor and other public officials.

In Brazil Dr. Muller is a member of the Academy of Letters, restricted to forty members; the Historical and Geographical institute of Rio de Janeiro; the Geographical society, the Engineers' club and other scientific and technical associations, among which is the Societe d'Histoire Diplomatique de Paris. His name has recently been mentioned in connection with the presidency as that of a man worthy of succeeding Fonseca.

The back of the neck is the commonest place for a carbuncle to appear. It is a most sensitive spot, not so much on the surface of the skin as in the underlying tissues, wherein are great nerves that communicate very closely with the brain. And it is in these tissues that the carbuncle spreads its "roots."

the tissue caused by the germs called streptococcus and staphylococcus. These are the principal but by no means the only pus producing germs. They eat and break down the tissues. The white corpuscles of the blood rush to the spot and try to devour the attacking bacteria. Millions of them perish in the attempt, and pus is really a mixture of dead white corpuscles and germs that are exuding virulent poisons.

Carbuncles select the back of the neck so often because of the irritation caused by the collar if this be slightly frayed or roughened by careless laundering. The back of the neck is almost as much exposed to dirt as are the backs of the hands and needs washing almost as often. The rubbing of the collar scrapes off the scaly surface of the skin, which is its protection against germs of disease. This being gone, the germs enter unopposed.

A collar button pressing constantly on the one spot may produce the same effect.

And in a few days you are going around with a bandage on your neck and suffering awful torture. Fortunately the doctors have discovered an antitoxin that quickly cures carbuncles. Yet even when this is administered the patient is doomed to much pain.

The moral of all this is: Don't wear a collar that is the least bit frayed.—New York World.

DOOMED TO A LIVING DEATH.

French Convicts Leave Hope Behind When They Enter Cayenne.

Cayenne—red pepper to the world at large, hell to the few thousand of convicts transported to this isolated northeastern corner of equatorial South America. Here, it was rumored, existed one of the world's most antiquated and revolting penal systems, where thousands of men are exiled and doomed to a living death. Men from French Guiana had intimated conditions which vied with the cruelties of the old convict ships.

Groups of convicts lounged about or lay sick and incapacitated on the verandas. At night the barred iron door of each dormitory is locked, and outside paces a guard, revolver in hand. Sometimes under cover of darkness the inmates settle feuds. Occasionally to establish leaders rival gangs fight with cudgels, knives and even paving stones. Some disabled, others dead, the most indomitable are reconciled and form a tyrannical secret society.

Many a poor wretch dreads the night hours, and one suspected of informing may be set upon by an enraged pack. Occasionally murder is committed in profound silence, and daylight finds a dead or dying convict in the passageway or entrance. Questioning is useless, and few guards will risk life in entering the barracks when smothered cries and cursings warn them of internal strife.

All the men I talked with were well disposed toward me, one in particular—a tall, well educated man with a pair of dark rimmed glasses and large eyes fearfully strained through inability to secure proper lenses.

"You must not lose hope," I told a group and almost swallowed my own words. "Hope!" burst out the rich, tremulous voice of the tall man. "It is always the same; there is no hope here." "No; no hope here!" was the echoed murmur of his comrades.—Charles Wellington Furlong in Harper's Magazine.

Special Fruit.

A man riding a wheel along a country road in late October dismounted, climbed a fence and picked up an apple from the ground. He had been eating it when a farmer came along and said, "Hay, what are you doing?"

The man apologized and said he had picked the apple up from the ground. "Waal," half snorted the farmer, "don't you go doin' anything like that ag'in. Understand?" "All right, sir," said the man. "But I thought it would be all right because I found the apple on the ground." "Waal, that's just it!" cried the farmer. "Them apples on the ground is fur my hogs. If you want one you pick it off the tree."—Everybody's.

Commercial Valuation.

"Politeness costs nothing." "Yes," replied the gentleman of the old school. "Perhaps that's why people have so little respect for it."—Washington Star.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism and Serious Diseases Follow

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and wornout feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected, may develop into the deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles for the new discovery, Hindipo, promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Hindipo a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly reach the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble or rheumatism.

You will find Hindipo different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Hindipo should fail in a single case. 50c a box at Johnson's Pharmacy. Money back if not satisfactory.—Advt.

A Letter For Schiller.

Schiller once received a letter which took five years to reach him. In 1793 the national convention created the author of "The Robbers" a French citizen as a tribute of admiration for the revolutionary ideas expressed in that work. The clerk charged with the dispatch of this civic diploma addressed the cover to "Citoyen Gille," and Schiller did not receive it until 1798. On its receipt he wrote: "This document has come to me from the kingdom of the dead. Danton and Claviere attested it. The covering letter is signed by Roland. All three have passed away."—London Chronicle.

ORGANIZING FARM WORK

A. B. Hostetter Will be Superintendent of the Northern Minnesota District

THIS COUNTY IS REPRESENTED

St. Louis, Carlton, Crow Wing and Koochiching Counties to Form the District

Plans for the organization of a Northeastern Minnesota district for farm development work are going forward. If present plans go through, A. B. Hostetter, who will probably be district superintendent, will take the field about July 1, and each of the four counties will have a county agent by Aug. 1.

The district will originally consist of St. Louis, Carlton, Crow Wing and Koochiching counties. The county board of each county has appropriated money under the Craig bill, thus becoming eligible for state aid. In addition, St. Louis and Carlton counties have qualified for the $1,000 aid offered by the crop improvement committee of the council of Grain Exchanges.

Ordinarily a district would not be organized without more counties, but on account of the great size of St. Louis county and the fact that Lake County is a prospect for the future, Dean Woods of the state agricultural college decided to sanction the organization. Aitkin and Itasca counties, which were asked to go into the district, failed to qualify by the county boards refusing to make the required appropriations.

Mr. Hostetter's appointment as superintendent of the district has not yet been made, but since the first talk of the organization of the district, Mr. Hostetter has been considered for the place. His appointment is expected to be made within a few days and he will take up his duties immediately. Although the appropriations for county agents will not become available until Aug. 1, there is much preliminary work to be done by the superintendent. The St. Louis county agent, Fred Ward, as been in the field for two or three months.

The Duluth demonstration farm will be the base of operations, and the district superintendent will have his headquarters there. The agents will be experienced farm instructors and will work with the farmers in the field under the direction of the superintendent.—Duluth Herald.

MAKING MAP OF CITY

J. F. McCarthy, of New York, Making Map For Fire Insurance Companies

F. J. McCarthy, a surveyor, is making a fire map of the city for the central department of the Sanborn Map company of New York. All the fire insurance companies buy these maps for their agents.

It will take Mr. McCarthy three months to complete his draft of Brainerd. The last map of this city was made in 1907 and since then there have been many changes. He makes a record of the length and width and height of houses, construction, etc., and from these records the agents get their data as to insurable value, etc.

Mr. McCarthy has engaged rooms on the north side. This extended mention is made of the gentlemen so that some householders will not become alarmed when he sees a man making notes of his house and then measuring it.

THE FARMERS' CAR

Livestock Shipping and Marketing in Farmers' Hands Increases Farmers' Revenue

The following clipping was given the Dispatch by E. O. Webb and relates to what is termed the "Farmers' Car," being a system of shipping and marketing by the farmers which brings them increased revenue:

The patrons of farmers car of Elkland, have reason to feel proud of their success which was shown by the fact that the Elmira Star-Gazette has given them a prominent space with attractive head lines, as you will see by the following article:

On the 19th of April, 1911, the first car of livestock was shipped out of Elkland, Pa., by the farmers of that section under the name of the "Farmers' Car." Since the business has steadily grown and from $6,500 to $8,000 worth of stock is now shipped each month, and a car is now shipped further up the Cohanessque Valley at Knoxville, Pa. Farmers now receive from 20 to 50 per cent more for their livestock than previously, and the business has received such an impetus that the value of all kinds of stock has greatly increased in that territory. The system of co-operation among the farmers in making shipments was originated by Edwin W. Coates, Linsford M. Coates and Martin Murray, all of Elkland, and they have since made a great success of their management. This is due to the fact that they are all first-class business men and also practical farmers themselves. The Coates Bros. are extensive dealers in hardware and farm implements. Mr. Murray is a young man of high ability, and it is of interest to note that he is a cousin of Lawrence Murray, ex-controller of the currency.

All three gentlemen are owners of farms, and it is stated that they are the largest land owners in Tioga county. The many farmers benefited by the system of shipment are unanimous in expressing their appreciation of these gentlemen, whose ability has made such a success of the management. Hogs, sheep, lambs, cattle, calves, etc., are now shipped and the operations are constantly increasing into more distant territory. People elsewhere who have heard of the movement have become interested and the Coates Bros. and Mr. Murray will be glad at all times to give still further information concerning a system which will do much to elevate and make more profit for the agricultural profession.—Elmira Star-Gazette.

NEW SOO TRAIN FOR CROSBY

Leaves Duluth Between 8 and 9 in the Morning, Arriving at Crosby by a Noon Hour

8,000 RODE ON THE BOATS
Not a Single Accident or Trouble of Any Kind Experienced by Ingalls Motor Boat Co.

Crosby, June 27.—All Crosby is preparing for the reception of the "Duluth News Tribune Special" which is to be the name of the new train put in operation by the Soo road on Sunday, June 29, and continued every Sunday during the summer. The train is to be run from Duluth to Crosby, and will accommodate a large number of Duluth people who will enjoy a Sunday's outing on the Cuyuna range or on Serpent lake. The train will leave Duluth between 8 and 9 every Sunday morning, arriving at Crosby at noon. On the return trip the train will leave Crosby at 6 o'clock in the evening, arriving in Duluth at about 10 o'clock. This will give excursionists the entire afternoon at the lake, with time for a trip over the range country in the morning and evening. There is plenty of good fishing in the lake, with an attractive shore for campers, and accommodations of all kinds are offered at the summer resort. A band will welcome the first appearance of the trip and all the citizens will turn out. A special program has been prepared for the day.

Mrs. A. D. Darling entertained at five hundred on Wednesday afternoon. Three tables were played. Mrs. J. S. Lutes was awarded first prize, Mrs. C. A. Lewis secured the consolation, and Mrs. A. J. Hayes was the winner at the cut of the cards. The house was decorated with white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Ethel Brown was given a farewell theatre party Wednesday evening. She returned to her home in Little Falls.

The Ingalls Motor Boat company, at the time of the Northern Pacific railway shop picnic, handled 8,000 people without accident or trouble of any kind. It is a record to be proud of. The $5 prize given by the company was awarded No. 247, this being the number of the Northern Pacific locomotive which pulled the excursion train.

Capt. H. Ingalls left Monday for a week's fishing on the north shore of Lake Superior. This is the first vacation he has had since coming to Crosby, three years ago.

The Order of the Eastern Star was inaugurated in Crosby Monday evening. The lodge was instituted by Mrs. Ronald, grand worthy matron of Minneapolis and Mrs. Kenyon of Wadena.

Chester D. Tripp, general manager of the Rogers, Brown Ore Co., is expected in Crosby this week.

Miners of Crosby, Cuyuna and Ironston will soon enjoy a picnic on the south shore of Serpent lake, having secured permission from Attorney George H. Gardner of Brainerd, for the use of the grounds.

The Summer Girl

Why float the summer girl, my son?
Why criticize her attitude?
Why ban her from the wharf, my son,
With carping word and platitudes?
What if she fickle proves, my son?
Are not all breezes from the sea?
It merely you behave, my son,
To know just when she teases thee.
The summer girl in love, my son,
'S a lesson in humility.
She's like the clouds above, my son,
Least trusted in tranquility.
Her face is fair and fresh, my son,
Her heart like airy thistledown.
Her arms are falts that thrash, my son,
Her hair a fairy mistal crown.
Her life's a butterfly, my son,
She suns herself, and in review
You see her flutter by, my son,
To flowers that are fresh and new.
But wish not otherwise, my son,
The fleeting things that please us most.
Compete with other guys, my son,
And, if you win, neglect to boast.
—Arthur James in Morning Telegraph.

ROBERT J. COLLIER PLANS TO FLY ACROSS ATLANTIC

Publisher Building a Hydroaeroplane, Marblehead, Mass.

Robert J. Collier, the New York publisher, it is said, will attempt to cross the Atlantic ocean in the fall in a flying boat equipped with a 200 horsepower engine of French design and capable of 100 miles an hour or more. The hydroaeroplane is being constructed at the Burgess-Curtiss aeroplane plant, Marblehead, Mass., with much secrecy. It will be larger and nearly twice as swift as the craft constructed for the navy department recently, which has made forty successful flights. It will cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

Mr. Collier, it is said, told the designers that he wanted the craft merely for sport, but his intimate friends say that he is bent upon attempting the transatlantic flight. He has been to Marblehead several times in the past few weeks and will try out the flying boat over the harbor in about two weeks. The machine will be entirely finished by the middle of July.

The flying boat, it is said, will be the largest and fastest hydroaeroplane in the world. A special twenty cylinder Anzani engine, with 200 horsepower, has been imported at a cost of $10,000. It is made almost entirely of aluminum, weighing about 700 pounds. The gross weight of the machine, including the weight of the aviator and a passenger, will be 2,200 pounds. The planes are forty-five feet in length from tip to tip and are made of special varnished linen.

They are seven feet apart and supported by a single line of uprights of steel, with steel wire bracing, resembling cables on suspension bridges. The propellers have eight foot blades, made of solid mahogany, set at right angles, making four blades. The engine is situated between the planes, behind and almost two feet above the head of the operator. It can easily be "turned over" by a wheel arrangement without necessitating the operator leaving his seat.

Besides carrying a tank with a capacity of fifty gallons, there is room in the craft for another tank of the same size. This would give Mr. Collier sufficient gasoline to carry him across the ocean.

The air craft will sit lightly on the water and in this position can make from sixty to seventy-five miles an hour. It is uninkable, and this, with its speed, removes most of the danger of descending to the water in flight.

All parts of the flying boat have been finished, and it will take about two weeks longer to assemble them. The craft resembles the naval flying boat, but is several feet longer, and its engine will have three times the horsepower.

Ruskin's Burlesque of Shelley.
There were recently sold at auction in London some famous letters, among them one by Ruskin denouncing Shelley's style—"one might write Shelley by Shrewsbury clock." He then proceeds to give a specimen of how it could be done:

It was a lawnly lelet
By anemone and violet
Like masonic paven.
There sat a gentleman—flushed and shy—
And a girl with corkscrew curl in her eye.
On the grass between was a large old pie
And a ham bone, cleanly shaven.
And the gentleman asked in accents mild,
"Was it quite enough soaked before it was biled?"
And the lady replied as she pulled a violet
Off the little lawn islet.
"Didn't I tell you—Jane would spite it!"

WELCOME WORK.

The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it, whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.

Adversity has the effect of eliciting talents which in prosperous circumstances would have lain dormant.—Horne.

Where the Fly Is Sacred.

The common housefly is regarded in some parts of the world as a bringer of good luck. Some years ago a correspondent from Greenock wrote to Notes and Queries: "Among our deep sea fishermen there is a most comical idea that if a fly falls into the glass from which any one has been drinking, or is about to drink, it is considered a sure and true omen of good luck to the drinker and is always noticed as such by the company." But houseflies have the charm of rarity on the Dogger bank.—London Spectator.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY
RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After a Few Doses are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Hindipo, relieves all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly.

It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system. It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered, Hindipo is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case. 50c a box at Johnson's Pharmacy. Money back if not satisfactory.—Advtd.
